Field of the Invention This invention relates to an optical disk recording method and an optical disk apparatus suitable for recording and reproducing an information signal onto and from an optical disk having a spiral recording track, that is, a phase change type optical disk. 2. Description of the Prior Art In an optical disk apparatus for recording and reproducing an information signal onto and from an optical disk such as the phase change type optical disk, it is known that the data signal is recorded and reproduced with, for example, a light beam having a wavelength of 780 nm or 635 nm being condensed on the surface of a disk rotating at a constant speed while the optical disk is being subjected to a tracking servo control. With reference to FIG. 1, a light beam (indicated by the dotted line) from a light source is focused on the surface of an optical disk (indicated by the dashed line) rotating at a constant speed and while being subjected to a tracking servo control, the light beam is radiated on spiral or concentric tracks on the optical disk surface. The record track (indicated by the solid line) of the optical disk is divided into the address section, the video section and the audio section, and the light beam is radiated on the recording sections of these sections. That is, the light beam is radiated on the portions (for example, the portions designated by the reference numerals 2 f678ea9f9e
